SALT LAKE CITY

Few Observations of This Unique City and the Mormons.

The recent trial of Reed Smoot, the Mormon member of the United States Senate, in an effort to have him expelled from that body, has attracted much attention to this polygamous sect and to Salt Lake City, the headquarters of mormonism.
This is our excuse for writing,
at this time, an article about a visit to Salt Lake City.

It was the middle of last July,
at noon on a Sunday, when a Union Pacific train landed us in this beautiful city. Almost the entire United States was suffering from extremely hot weather, and although we could see snow on the surrounding mountains, the sun was getting in effective work on everything not protected by shade.
But there was a gentle, refreshing breeze; and the unusual sight of a stream of clear water rushing along the paved gutters beside the sidewalks helped greatly toward keeping the stranger cool. This is a rare sight. The citizens proudly call your attention to their "137 miles of brooklined streets." The quantity of water necessary to supply these constantly running streams is enormous. It all comes from the Wasatch mountains, where the supply is furnished in summer by the melting snow.
The city has a large reservoir on a mountain in the suburbs fed by a "sluice" leading from the Wasatch range. It is the clearest water we have ever seen in a waterworks reservoir. Salt Lake City is built on a site that slopes just enough to furnish natural drainage.

The mountains surrounding the city are as barren as it is possible for the reader to picture. Brigham Young must have been seeking the most desolate place on earth when he decided to locate at that spot. He probably calculated however that seventeen wives could make the place interesting. The land in its natural state appears to be as sterile as that which the farmer said was so poor he "could not raise a disturbance on it." Brigham raised a disturbance that is still growing. Also about 58 children. The city built there is certainly a great monument—but it honors a bad cause. It is modern, clean, active, with broad,
asphalt-paved streets, and fine buildings.

The Mormons like to call their city "Zion." Salt Lake City was founded by Brigham Young and followers in 1847. The elevation is 4,200. Population now is 75,000. The streets are 132 feet wide, bordered with shade trees and laid out at right angles.
There are many fine business houses and elegant residences.
The finest residence belongs to Senlor Kerns and cost $350,000.
He was once a miner, and developed
the famous "Silver King" mine, which is about 25 miles from Salt Lake City.

The Mormon church operates a very large department store known as Zion's Cooperative Mercantile Association, which does a business of five millions dollars per year and employs 350 people.

One of the most interesting places to the visitors is of course, Temple Square, a large area of ground surrounded by a high and substantial wall. Within are the main buildings used by the highest officers of the Mormon Church.
The Temple cost $4,000,000.

TWO MEN KILLED

Fatal Encounter Near Curnutt Station Saturday.

Jasper Campbell and Lawrence Foreman were killed near Curnutt Station last Saturday afternoon during a fight between Campbell and James Morrison on one side and Lawrence and Arthur Foreman on the other.

All were employed on the N. & W. railway extension just across the river. Mary Poole, a 14-year-old girl living at Arthur Foreman's took dinner to the Foreman brothers. In passing Campbell and Morrison they made improper remarks to the girl. She told Mrs. Foreman about it and the latter sent a note to her husband, telling what had occurred. The Foremans went after the two men, who had by this time crossed the river, intending to leave on the train. A fight started immediately, the men at first using only their fists. Pistols were soon brought into play. Besides the two fatalities, Arthur was shot in the arm and Morrison was badly beaten.

The men were not natives. The Foremans are sons of Emory W. Foreman, of Kanawha, who worked on the dam at this place several years ago. Lawrence married a Miss Skeens, who with two children survives him. Campbell and Morrison were laborers, working for Contractor Stern.

The funeral of Alexander Lackey took place from the residence last Saturday at 11 o'clock. Rev. Dr. J. M. Boland, pastor of the M. E. Church South, eulogized the departed in a most fitting manner.

The attendance was unusually large. Friends were present from all parts of the county and many from other counties. The number of Masons participating is said to have been the largest ever seen here, five neighboring lodges being represented.

The floral tributes were very handsome. A fine maltese cross design sent by the Maysville Commandery, Knights Templar, and the offerings of the local bar, the county and city officials and the teachers of Louisa, were among the most elaborate.

The design given by the bar was a pillow of calla lilies, violets and white roses.

Among those present from distant places were:

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Brown, Misses Quinn and Florence Brown, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Hampton, Mrs. Jas. Patton, Mrs. J. C. Hopkins, Mr. H. McConnell, Mrs. D. H. Carpenter, G. F. Gallup and little son, Dr. Williams, L. T. Everett, John Price, John Mason, Geo. Martin, Mr. Mitchell, of Catlettsburg; Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Houston, Mrs. Chas. Russell, Al Savage and J. W. Woods, of Ashland; Mr. and Mrs. John Moore, Mrs. Lucy Lockwood and Miss Lula Vanhorn, of Lockwood; Mrs. J. F. Hatten, Miss Cyrus and Dr. Banfield, of Buchanan; J. F. Ratcliff, Huntington; J. M. Corra and H. C. Harte, Ironon, O. In addition to these who knew him best—surrounded by those who loved him best, that he showed those traits of character that endeared him to wife, children and kindred. To her whose home and heart are now desolate she was ever kind, loyal and tender. His wife's happiness and comfort were to Alexander Lackey prime considerations, and with his thoughtful care regarding their mother were mingled the most affectionate concern for the welfare of the dear little girls so early bereft of a devoted father. Singularly modest and unassuming, almost of a retiring disposition among men and strangers, Mr. Lackey found in the society of a cultured wife and bright children all the elements of happiness and content.

The Lawrence Fiscal Court met last Tuesday in regular session, Judge Vinson presiding and the following magistrates present: Compton, Giles, Diamond, Perry, Berry, Swann, Sparks and Hughes.

The allowance of claims and the consideration of a delinquent list is the business before the body. Court was not in session Wednesday because of the funeral of Judge Vinson's brother.

A change in the public road leading up from Greenup to Catlettsburg was ordered by the Judge, in accordance with a recent review. The present location of the road is very bad and a change was much needed.

The Louis Lodge of the Mutual Protection Society has adopted a resolution disapproving the practice of any of its members furnishing or aiding in getting bond for any person charged with a criminal offense. Also, to expel any member from the order who shall sign or assist in procuring a bond for any one who has been under arrest more than once for violations of the law.

This action is in harmony with the chief object of the order, which is to bring criminals to justice and see that they are punished as the law provides.

The Passing of Alexander Lackey.

The time intervening between the death of Mr. Lackey and the hour at which the News went to press was so short that only a very brief notice of the dead citizen could be prepared. And even now, with ample time, it is difficult to write of him in terms and manner commensurate with the civic and moral worth of the man. Fortunately for Louisa we are not frequently called upon to chronicle the demise of so worthy a citizen, for the city and the community can not often spare such as he. Born in Louisa, educated in her schools, and becoming part and parcel as it were of her best and most vital interests, Alexander Lackey lived to the meridian of life, honored and useful to his fellow man, and died loved and regretted by all who knew the able lawyer, the public-spirited citizen, the honest upright man.

It is putting it strongly, but truthfully, to say that as a lawyer Mr. Lackey had but few superiors in Kentucky. He was not a brilliant man, far less a showy one. His pleadings at the bar were not adorned with bouquets of rhetoric, but they were ripe with logic, sound in the very principles of the law and strong in persuasive and convincing argument. He mentally devoured the decisions of the Courts of Last Resort, and none remembered them so well as he. Always a student he burned the midnight oil in his pursuit of legal lore, and thus his mind became a rich storehouse from which he could draw an endless supply. He had an enviable reputation as a first class lawyer, and this brought him a varied and lucrative practice. A knowledge of Mr. Lackey's worth and ability made him much sought for by those who would like to see him occupy some high official station. But if he ever had any ambition along this line few, if any, ever knew it. He had been repeatedly solicited to accept nominations but he invariably declined. It is probable that if he had lived to ripe years the Circuit or Appellate Court might have successfully tempted him, and he would have been a public-spirited citizen. All plans and undertakings having for their end the improvement of Louisa and her people had his championship and support. None appreciated better than he the power for good exerted by schools and churches, and to their establishment and support he was a liberal contributor.

While Alex. Lackey was a pillar of strength in the law and a potent factor in the municipality it was in his home life among those who knew him best—surrounded by those who loved him best, that he showed those traits of character that endeared him to wife, children and kindred. To her whose home and heart are now desolate she was ever kind, loyal and tender. His wife's happiness and comfort were to Alexander Lackey prime considerations, and with his thoughtful care regarding their mother were mingled the most affectionate concern for the welfare of the dear little girls so early bereft of a devoted father. Singularly modest and unassuming, almost of a retiring disposition among men and strangers, Mr. Lackey found in the society of a cultured wife and bright children all the elements of happiness and content.

The passing of such a man, then, was a distinct loss to this community. The intense solicitude manifested during his long illness; the deep regret expressed when it was learned that he must die; the grief manifested when the tired lids closed in death, and the great throng of people from all the ranks of life which gathered to pay a last tribute of respect, testified to the esteem in which our friend was held. No scar or stain mars the beauty of an upright life. In the completeness of an honorable career death called him, and he met the summons bravely and calmly. Peace to his ashes, honor to his memory and rest to his soul!

New Buildings for Louisa.

Several contractors have been to Louisa within the past few days making figures on some new buildings that are to be erected here this season. Prominent among these buildings are the residence of Col. Jay H. Northup, a passenger depot for the C. & O. railroad, and the new city hall and lock-up."

Col. Northup's residence is to contain more than a dozen rooms, all of liberal dimensions. The plans were brought up from Catlettsburg this week by James Kilgore. The residence will be located in upper Louisa, on the river front, and just below the mouth of the Jones Branch.

Plans for a passenger depot for Louisa are now open to inspection at Ashland. Bids will be received on both brick and frame structures and the decision as to which will be built will be reached after the bids are all in. We hope the brick will receive the decision.

The city hall plans have been adopted and contracts will be let at once. The new building will have the court and jury rooms, the lock-up and the vault on the first floor. The second floor may be used by lodges or for public meetings.

LATER.—The plans for the Louisa passenger depot have been sent here. It is said that a frame building has been decided upon. The plans are very similar to those of the Catlettsburg station. The City Council has decided to rebuild on very much the same plan as before, with the addition of a fire proof vault and concrete floor. This will keep the cost of re-building down to about or quite the amount received from insurance.

Death of Samuel R. Vinson.

The illness of Sam Vinson which was noted in a recent number of the News terminated fatally last Monday. He had been sick some time with "flint consumption," a disease peculiar to workers in potteries. He died at the residence of Lon Skeens, a brother of County Clerk Add Skeens. Mrs. Skeens and Rev. Mr. Faust, of East Liverpool, accompanied Mr. Vinson's body to Louisa where funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon, conducted by Mr. Faust and Rev. H. B. Huettet at the residence of his brother K. F. Vinson. Interment occurred the same afternoon at the Vinson burial ground near the old home of the late Col. William Vinson. Deceased was a brother of Judge R. F. Vinson and was a very popular man. He leaves a widow to mourn his loss. Sam had been at East Liverpool about two years, where he had a lucrative position with a large pottery. His death comes very unexpectedly. The last time he was at Louisa he was the picture of health, and did not look as though he would ever have consumption. He was a genial generous man, and was liked by everybody.

Fire On Lock Avenue.

The cry of "fire" aroused the residents of Lock avenue about four o'clock Wednesday morning. It was found that the furniture in Snyder Bros. house, recently occupied by A. S. Weller, was burning.

The house was densely filled with smoke. The timely application of a few buckets of water quenched the flames. Dr. Weller occupied the house that night, but his family had been at the hotel since Saturday, it being their intention to move very soon to Jackson, Ohio. The furniture was very heavily insured, and is the property of Dr. Weller. The amount of the policy was $700.

If the building had burned the flames would have wiped out a large number of houses in that part of town. The residents at once realized this and were frightened accordingly. Considerable excitement and feeling prevailed over the matter.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Maj or J. S. W. Muller, of Catlettsburg, died last Friday after a brief illness of pneumonia.

A cyclone cut a narrow path through Hyden, Ky., demolishing the Southern Methodist church, unroofing mercantile houses and then passing up the middle fork of Kentu ky river, making a clean sweep of forest trees on its route.

Mrs. J. M. Woodward, of Knoxville, Tenn., was brought here to night in care of Dr. Andrews from Morehead, Ky., suffering from tuberculosis. Mrs. Woodward has been on a visit to the latter place and was taken ill several days ago.—Lexington News.

Dr. E. D. Frank and Ray Saulsberry, we're acquitted Tuesday, of the charge of incendiarism in the burning of a barn and dwelling for Capt. Bent and setting the Aden Springs hotel on fire. Cal Phillips who was charged with being an accomplice evaded the officers.—Grayson Herald.

A year or two ago the little son of C. E. Ferguson, of Paris, while at Sunday-school at the Methodist Church of that city, fell into a cistern in the basement and was drowned. His father brought suit against the church for $20,000 damages and a jury has just decided in favor of the church.

As the steamer Doctor York was coming down the Sandy river her tiller ropes broke and she collided with the Sea Gull, at Buffalo shoals, near Paintsville. A hole ten feet long was knocked in the Doctor's hull, but above the water line. A barge that was being towed by the Sea Gull was sunk.

Joe Burton, of Stinson, who lost his mind from effects of la grippe about a month ago hit his wife with a wagon spoke Tuesday, knocking her teeth out and breaking her jaw bone, leaving her in a critical condition. He then went and drowned himself. Mr. Burton was a good honest man, and liked by all who knew him.—Grayson Bugle-Herald.

Consumption

The only kind of consumption to fear is "neglected consumption."

People are learning that consumption is a curable disease. It is neglected consumption that is so often incurable.

At the faintest suspicion of consumption get a bottle of Scott's Emulsion and begin regular doses.

The use of Scott's Emulsion at once, has, in thousands of cases, turned the balance in favor of health.

Neglected consumption does not exist where Scott's Emulsion is used.

Prompt use of Scott's Emulsion checks the disease while it can be checked.

establish a cigar box lumber mill soon at Kenova, upon a large scale. Mr. Ritter has already opened negotiations for the right for the plant, which will cut something like 25,000,000 feet annually.

This operation will not interfere with the up-country mills both of which will continue as at present. The cigar box lumber business, however, will be gradually turned over to the new plant, which will be so placed as to have a great advantage in shipping facilities.

Morehead, Ky.—The people of this community are greatly elated over the finding of an eight-ton vein of cannel coal near Hilda, on Brushy Fork, five miles north of this place. The coal is the very best grade of cannel coal, burns well and was found on the farm of John E. Johnson. The vein has been traced a distance of three miles along the side of the ridge and is the first coal ever found in Rowan county.

This new field is on the direct route of the Cincinnati, Flemingsburg and Ashland railroad, surveyed through to a connection with the C. & O. rail road.

We are in receipt of a communication from Charles E. Herron, a former Grayson boy, who now has his headquarters at the Everett House, New York City. He has recently returned from a trip around the world which took in Japan, India, Australia, South Africa and Europe. At Kimberly, So. Africa he visited his brother George, who was a small boy when he left Grayson. His other brother, Lincoln is a private secretary to Gov. Spark of Nevada. His father, George W. Herron, a former hotel proprietor of Grayson and ex-Representative of Carter and Elliott counties, resides a Seattle, Wash. He was recently granted a pension of $50 per month by special act of Congress. This family has a disposition to travel and all of them have seen the biggest part of the world. The boys who grew up in this quiet village, have made first class business men in every particular.—Grayson Tribune.

Sergeant, Ky., March 30—Fred J. Andrews, of Condorsport, Penn., representing a wealthy Pennsylvania syndicate, had just closed a deal on 40,000 acres of fine coal and timber lands in Letcher, Knott and Perry Counties, making the largest deal of the kind consummated here in years. The price paid was $15 per acre. This deal will mean much for the development of the Eastern Kentucky coal fields, and within the next few years great developments will take place. Mr. Andrews said to-day that at least two distinct lines of railroads would be built to develop their property within the next two years. "One of them," said he, "is the extension of the Lexington and Eastern from Jackson." In all probability the other extension will be the Cumberland valley branch of the Louisville and Nashville from Harlan Courthouse. There is greater activity in Kentucky coal land than was ever evidenced before. In many localities coal lands are selling for $30 and even $40 per acre.

What Microbes Are. Since Pasteur demonstrated the fact that many human diseases are due to minute living things which grow and multiply in our bodies there has been a tendency to call all microscope organism, whether harmful or not, "germs" or "microbes" or "bacteria" indiscriminately. This confusion may be cleared by the statement that protozoa are the lowest known forms of animals and that bacteria are the lowest known forms of plants while "germs" and "microbes" may apply to the disease-causing forms in group.—[April Century.]

WINE CARDUIN

A DUTY WOMEN OWE THEMSELVES. "Good actions speak louder than words," so too, does the testimony of many thousand persons, during a third of a century gone, louder than mere claims not backed by a guarantee of results. This is the reason why the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription offer a special reward for women who can not be cured. Such a remarkable record on the long record of cures of the diseases and peculiar to women.

If there is an invalid woman, suffering from female weakness, prostration, debility, or any disease who has used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription without complete success, the proprietors of that medicine will be to her from such persons, and it will be her own money, not ours, to pay for the same.

The price of the Good Shepherd, at their expense, is $1.00. We send a copy of Dr. Pierce's "Medicine" to any person who sends us $500 for any case of the above maladies which we cannot cure.

It is a good thing to keep Dr. Pierce's favorite medicine in the house. One pellet is a laxative, two a mild cathartic.
